ancestry library edition

Available at your Library for FREE

Introduction to Ancestry Library Edition, two-part class meets Fri., Oct. 27 & Nov. 3 @ 10:30 - 12:00.

Participants will learn to use Ancestry Library Edition, which is available for free at the library. Lorraine Crist-Campman presents this "nuts and bolts" approach to Ancestry: how to search, navigate, print. Use filters to narrow down results to a manageable size. Use the U.S. Federal Census, which was taken every 10 years and is available 1790 through 1940. If possible, bring the full names of your parents and/or grand parents, their date and place of birth and death. Participants will be able to use Ancestry Library Edition following class as space permits. Participants should have basic computer skills and must be able to attend both sessions. Limited to 10 participants. PREREGISTER Lorraine Crist-Campman has been doing genealogy since 1979 and she has taken numerous genealogy classes. Lorraine has a certificate in Foundations of Genealogy from the Historical Society of Philadelphia and was a Historian at the Trappe Historical Society.
